FOREWORD

This is the record of the descendants of John and Electa Taylor Brown and of the ancestors of John Milton Brown, their grandson, and my father. It is the result of research through correspondence; of hundreds of letters, written and received.

When I started doing genealogical research in 1936 I knew very little of my father's family and had met only one of his nephews. I had a few notes that my mother had gathered together through correspondence. I knew that he was the youngest of seven children of Orsemus Taylor and Harriet A. Ward Brown. That he and his sister, Ella (Cornell) were born in Kendall Co., Illinois and the older children in New York and Pennsylvania.

I had several Christmas Card cousins, the result of my mother's correspondence, and I wrote to them asking for information on the Brown and Ward families.

John and Hazel Cook of Yorkville, Ill. sent me the name of Charles H. Ward of Coral Gables, Florida. He was the only living member of my father's and mother's generation. He had had a researcher work on the Ward line and by return mail sent me the results of that search and, of greater importance, the Bible record of the Josiah and Caleb Ward families. This record connected us with the "History of the William Ward Family" by Andrew Hinshaw Ward, and made research possible in the Vital Records and the County and Town Histories.

Some time later the Cooks sent a letter and an obituary of Orsemus' youngest sister, Semiramis Niver, and a letter written by his half-sister Theresa Taylor to Byron and Sarah Brown in Cropsey, Ill. It was in the family Bible that they received after the death of Sarah. This letter and obituary were dated 1915 and they came to me in 1938.

From this letter I learned that John Brown was born about 1795, probably in Berkshire County, Mass. That his wife was Electa Taylor and that they had six children: Orsemus, Cleopatra, Delwin, Statira, Ozro and Semiramis. Theresa said she was born Feb. 23, 1842 and that Orsemus was about twenty years older.

The obituary of Semiramis gave her birth date in Warren County, Pa., and she had married Dr. William C. Niver in Brockwayville, Pa. and lived there all of her life. She had eight children, six of whom survived her, and a brother, Ozro, in Talent, Oregon.

Since it had been more than twenty years, I decided there was not much I could do about it and filed both documents for further reference.

Among my mother's notes was one stating that my grandfather, Orsemus, had been a sawyer in his cousin's mills in Barnes, Pa., the place being named for the cousin's, Erastus Barnes' family.

In 1944 I wrote a letter to the postmaster of Barnes asking him to deliver the enclosed letter to a descendant of the Barnes family. In due time I received an answer from a Mr. Alan J. Scilly of Sheffield, Pa. The post office in Barnes had been abolished in 1935 and he had been given the letter by the postmaster of Sheffield which served the community.

Mr. Scilly had been secretary to Byron Barnes Horton, helping to compile the Barnes Family Record and told me that Erastus and Orsemus were not cousins, but that Electa Taylor was the sister of Erastus' step-mother, the third wife of Timothy Barnes. He also sent me a photostat of the Bible record of Thaddeus Taylor, Electa's father, and suggested sources that lead to further research on this line. There is still much to be done on it. Since Bible records rarely give the place of birth, I still do not know where my grandmother was born. Thaddeus was married and had one child in 1790, but does not appear in any of the census records. He must have been on the move.

John Brown and a cousin of Electa's, Stephen Taylor, were early settlers of Sheffield and according to a Warren County History, John Brown returned to Clymer, Chautauqua County, New York, where he died.

I had decided when I first learned that my grandfather was John Brown, with his birth date and place so vague, there was little that could be done about him and that if I ever did find anything about him I'd just have to fall into it while doing something else. Still it bothered me and I would, from time to time, try to do something about it.

In 1940 I visited my cousin, Earl Brown, son of Frank, in Sioux City, Iowa, and got the record of his father's and his family. Also visited the Cook family in Kendall County, Ill. and got the records of the family of my aunt Arvilla Cook, my father's oldest sister. They also took me to visit my Aunt Ida's oldest daughter, Bertha Gaffney, who promised to send me the records of her mother's family; but for some reason she never sent it. Since my time was so limited, I couldn't sit down with her and get it as I did with the others.

The morning of August 8, 1956 I awoke with the determination to use the clues in the obituary, that I had considered in 1938, now more than forty years old.

I wrote to the postmaster of Talent, Oregon and Brookway, Pa. The postmaster in Talent wrote me that he had given my letter to Mrs. Don Montgomery and I waited to hear from her. In October

I had a letter from her brother, Jay Withrow of Oakland, California, giving me a brief history of his grandfather, Ozro Thomas Brown, which will be included in his family record. But when I asked him to help me get records of his eight brothers and sisters I frightened him off. He did send me names of four Browns in California and Oregon who were also grandchildren of Ozro. These I wrote to and all but one was returned for a more complete address.

In July 1957 I had a telephone call from Mrs. Ozro L. Brown of Olean, Oregon, and she said that they were in a motel across town and would we come over and talk with them. We spent a very pleasant evening and I got a record of their family. The next day we went sightseeing together. They were the ones who received the letter and this was their way of answering it!

We had been considering a trip to the northwest in the fall to visit my husband's brother near Portland, Oregon, and my niece in Seattle. This we did and on our way home we stopped in Klamath Falls and Adah Brown took us to Talent, where we met Glen Withrow who has been most helpful in getting the records of all of the descendants of Ozro Thomas Brown.

The letter sent to Brookway, Pa. was put into the newspaper by the postmistress. One day I received two of the newspapers. One in which my letter had been printed and the other stating that several people had shown interest in my request and that I would hear from them.

Some time later I had a letter from Ruth Chapin Carver of Ridgeway, Pa., giving me some information on her grandmother, Ruth Statira Brown Chapin. She also sent me the name of Florence Burow in Cheswick, Pa. who started me off on the record of Semiramis Brown Niver. Mrs. Carver sent the name of Helen Chapin Sutton and between them I believe the record of Ruth Statira is quite complete.

Mrs. Burow in turn gave me the names of Cleo Emigh Millikin in Portland, Oregon and George Niver in Pittsburgh, Pa. They have helped greatly in getting the record of Semiramis Brown Niver.

Ruth Carver gave me some information on Delwin F. Brown who was an ornamental penman. His record has been very difficult to get. I finally got a death certificate from Freeport, L.I. and the clerk there gave me some names and addresses. I have tried in vain to get some record from his granddaughter, Bernice Brown (Mrs. John) Evans of San Bernadino, Calif.

After much research I found, through the Buffalo, N.Y. Library, an article in the American Biographical Encyclopedia on his son-in-law, Elbert S. Carman, and a paragraph on Delwin Fruenza Brown. I then found in the Manhattan Telephone book the address of his grandson's widow, Mrs. Travers Denton Carman, and she has helped me with the record on the Carman family.

Cleopatra Victoria Brown, John's oldest daughter, married Timothy O. Hutchinson. In the 1850 Census they were in Ridgeway, Pa. and Semiramis was with them. They moved back to Warren, Pa. and my letter to the postmaster at Warren was given to Frances J. Ramsey, of the Warren County Historical Society. She sent some information on this family and I have found some in the Census records. A brief history of Timothy in the Warren County History says that they had seven children, five of which I have names for. I have not been able to find a correspondent on this line.

This brings us to my own grandfather's family. He had seven children; six of them lived, married and had children. Byron had one child by his first wife, name not known. He was in the Civil War and was postmaster in Cropsey, Ill. for many years. His mother and grandmother were taken care of in their old age by his wife, Sarah, and died in Cropsey. Arvilla Cook lived in Kendall County, Ill. most of her life, having come from New York State about 1855. Thanks to John and Hazel Cook, I have a record of this family as of 1940 with some additions from them and the record of her family from Mame Appel, Arvilla's daughter.

Frank Brown died in Sioux City, Iowa where he lived much of his life. Through his sons and their wives I have a nearly complete record of his family.

I have already explained how I nearly got the record of Ida Cornell's family through her daughter, Bertha Gaffney. I did get a list of the children from Mame Appel, but I know none of their married names and haven't been able to get a correspondent on this line. I did get a death certificate of Bertha that gave a little information but there is much lacking in this record.

Inez, twin to Ida, married David Draffin and returned to New York state. That is the information I had on her. In an obituary of her mother in 1896 she was of North Parma. When I had so much success writing to postmasters, I decided to use this sixty-year-old clue and send a letter to Parma, N.Y., since North Parma was not listed in the gazetteer. Three months later I had a letter from Evelyn Laundry of Rochester, granddaughter of Inez, saying that she and her sister, Leona Ingraham, had made a chart of the family and were sending it to me. When it arrived I found that Inez had seven children and there were records of eighteen families on the chart. It was a wonderful document. There were only year dates and the maiden names of the wives were not given, but since then Evelyn has filled in a lot of the data. The name of the town had been changed to Hilton and Inez still has one daughter living there. In fact, all but one of the families of the descendants are living within a radius of thirty-five miles.

Ella Brown married LeRoy Cornell (no relation to her sister, Ida's husband) and lived in Lohrville, Iowa. I knew that she had two children and that her daughter died some years before she did. I sent to Calhoun County, Iowa for death certificates. I told the clerk I wanted them for genealogy and when she sent them in a letter she said that they didn't seem to have much data but that for a fee she could send a Report of Heirs and Realty. When she sent that she also sent the names of the three sons of the daughter, Edna Nelson. When I wrote to them, two of the letters were returned because of incorrect addresses, but the other one was forwarded to Albert Nelson of Panora, Iowa. He sent the records of his and his brother's families and the address of his uncle Jesse the other child of Ella. He lived in Ft. Dodge, Iowa, where he died in 1960. His wife, Birdie, has been very helpful with their records.

I believe that the record of my father's family is correct and up to date. I also have included a brief history of my father, John Milton Brown.

As you can see, there is much to be done on both the descendants of John Brown and the ancestors of John Milton Brown, but this seems to be the time to put the records that I have into book form and have it mimeographed while I have the opportunity.

I would have liked to have brought down the descendants of Josiah and Lurinda Sloan Ward, as I have done the Browns, but haven't had the success with correspondence on the Ward line. Maybe at some future date I can do this and there are probably enough Wards to make a book of their own. But in case I don't get this done, I am including the Ward Ancestors that I have in this one.

After all this correspondence and searching I still do not know where my grandfather, John Brown, was born or who his parents were. The nearest that I have found was a John, born 6 April 1794 in Peru, Berkshire, Mass., son of David and Mary Hutchison Brown. So far I have found nothing to prove that this is my John. One thing on which the family and census records agree is that he was born about 1795 in Mass. The family traditions of a Mayflower ancestor; that he was a relative of John Brown, the abolitionist; and his service in the War of 1812 as a drummer or a fifer are still to be proven.

On the ancestors there are twenty-nine immigrants who came before 1675 and forty-eight family names. There are eighty-one family names of the descendants. This does not include maiden names of some of the wives.

Some explanation of the arrangement of this record should be given.

After the foreword comes the descendants of John Brown and Electa Taylor--not complete, but as many as I have been able to get with a great deal of help. These are listed according to age and each family as complete as possible. This is followed by a brief history of John Milton Brown, then a chart of his ancestors.

Then according to generations come the ancestors of John Milton Brown, listed so because the Wards of his mother's lines are given as well as the Browns. The underlined names are the direct line. These are in alphabetical arrangement and are given in generations back from John Milton Brown.

I have quite a bit of miscellaneous material which pertains to these lines that may be of interest to someone. This will be included with the pertinent material as notes.

There will be an explanation of the Coats of Arms used.

An index of the descendants and an index and bibliography of the ancestors, the immigrant ancestor marked with an asterisk.

Again as in my Stevens genealogy, I wish to express my appreciation to the Board members of the Colorado Genealogical Society for their help in the printing of this record; and to Mrs. Bernice Hathaway and Ralph Caughron for the Coats of Arms and the organization and mimeographing. To my husband for his co-operation and patience during its making. To all the above and to the too numerous to mention who have helped me with their family lines, I am very grateful.

If there is anyone who can add to or correct any of this record I will appreciate hearing from them.

To belong to and to know yourself as belonging in history to a family, a nation, a state, a race, is to gain immediate meaning for life and strength for living, for reality in worship.

Delwin Fruenza² Brown (John¹) born 6 Dec. 1828, Warren Co., Pa.; died 28 Nov. 1903, Freeport, Long Island, N.Y.; married Emily Jane Gregory, daughter of Moses and Nancy Whiting Gregory, born 8 July 1829, Genesee Co., N.Y.; d. 2 June 1906, Yonkers, N.Y. Prof. Delwin Fruenza Brown was a native of Pennsylvania but was a resident for the greater part of his life of Brooklyn and died at Freeport, Long Island, N.Y. in 1903. He took up penmanship in his youth and evinced a great natural aptitude for this very personal form of art. He achieved such skill as an artist penman that he won a national reputation. So delicate and sure was his work with the pen that it was not exceeded by the tool of the engraver, and it was in great demand when there was a call for the individual touch on such documents as charters, diplomas, and other such work. Early in life he became an instructor in penmanship, and few in the country have attained a higher name in the calling. For eighteen years he was a member of the faculty of Adelphi College in Brooklyn, conducting, however, a private school of his own in Brooklyn for pupils preparing for college. Mrs. Ruth Carver says that she has one of his pen pictures, framed and on her wall. She tells me that he won several medals in the First World's Fair in New York for his pen pictures, the principle ones being "The Last Supper" and "The Lord's Prayer." Children:

Agnes Emily³ Brown (Delwin² John¹) born 19 Nov. 1852; died 11 Feb. 1941, Norwood, Mass.; married Elbert Silleck Carman, son of Thomas Dorlan and Ann Denton Carman, born 30 Nov. 1836, Hempstead, L.I., N.Y.; died 28 Feb. 1900, New York City, N.Y. He moved to Brooklyn when he was still a child and attended Rockwell's private school and Brown University in 1857. In 1875 his father purchased Moore's Rural New Yorker, then published in New York City, which he edited. In the Encyclopedia of American Biography: "Elbert Silleck Carman, the distinguished editor and scientific investigator was a man who blazed a new trail and his name commands the gratitude that Society owes to a pathfinder. It might be said of him that he made two blades of grass grow where one had been before. He perfected a rose that he named for his wife." Children born Riveredge, New Jersey:

Ozro Thomas² Brown (John¹) born 7 Feb. 1830, Warren Co., Pa.; died 27 May 1917, Talent, Oregon; married Roxanna E. Grace, born 29 Apr. 1833 in house on New Hampshire-Vermont line. He was a blacksmith and went west with an ox team and covered wagon. On the way he stopped in Wisconsin and in Salt Lake City, Utah, to work at his trade and get more supplies. They first settled in Jacksonville, Oregon, then moved to Fort Klamath, Oregon, where they became the first white settlers. Here they built a log cabin where several of his children were born. They later built a raft of logs on which the family and supplies were floated down through the lakes into the Klamath River and to a point four miles west of what is now Klamath Falls, where they settled on land which they developed into a large stock ranch. The Modoc Indian War probably started shortly after the Brown family had established their home near the banks of the Klamath River, just west of Klamath Falls. Ozro moved his family to the Rouge River Valley and several attempts were made on his life by unfriendly Indians when he returned to look after his stock, but the friendly Indians were always there to help him. (This sketch furnished by his grandson, Jay O. Withrow.) From "Early Days in Phoenix, Oregon" we learn that a company of cavalry raised in Phoenix kept the blacksmith shops busy. Will Smith had been joined shortly before by O. T. Brown, who had just come across the plains from Wisconsin and he was a good scout and a tireless worker, though a small man. He and Smith took a contract to shoe the government stock, which he did in spite of the ague, only stopping when he shook so hard he couldn't hold a nail. This was in 1861. In 1867 he came with soldiers from Fort Klamath and located on Spencer Creek. Mrs. Brown was the first white woman in Klamath County. Children:

From the obituary: "Mrs. S. M. Niver, one of the oldest residents of Brockwayville, died at her home last Friday night after an extended illness. She was one of the earliest settlers of the Toby Valley, having come to this community when the country was an almost virgin forest, and Brockwayville simply a little settlement with only a few dwellings in it. When about fourteen years of age she came to Ridgeway from Clymer, N.Y. to make her home with her sister, Mrs. Timothy Hutchinson and in 1852 she came to Toby Valley to teach school. She taught at Branby Camp and in Brockwayville for two years after which she was united in marriage with Dr. William C. Niver. They started housekeeping near the spot where they spent their entire lives... Mrs. Niver was a member of the Presbyterian Church and before her health failed was active and interested in its growth and progress. She was a charter member of the Brockwayville Church, having been instrumental in its organization." Children:

HISTORY OF JOHN MILTON BROWN

It is hard for me to write a history of my father, as I knew him only in the later years of his life. He was past forty when I was born.

While thinking about doing this I happened upon an old Reader's Digest with an article on what people said in describing their parents or ancestors, and one parent, who thought he had done well by his children, was quite astonished when all his son could think to say of him was that he was quite a tall man. This is the way I feel in trying to write about my father and, perhaps, my best friend. There is one thing I must say, he did the very best he could under existing circumstances.

John Milton Brown was the youngest of seven children born to Orsemus Taylor and Harriet A. Ward Brown and was born Oct. 1 1857, a few years after his parents had moved with their family to Kendall County, Illinois from Chautauqua County, New York.

I know very little of his early life. He may have talked more about it when he was younger and it was all talked out by my time. There were a few things I remember him telling--the Brown family all loved and had fine horses. He told how his sister (I don't know which one) would hitch a horse to a "rig" with a baby in her arms, and drive in some kind of competition at the State Fair. Another thing he told was how, at the age of 12 or 13 he went to an Irish Wake and when he wouldn't take a drink a big Irishman hit him and blacked both his eyes, and grandfather made him go to Sunday School the next day with them. His grandmother Ward used to come to their farm in the summer and bring a younger cousin, Charlie Ward, with her. Dad claimed he got all the blame for the mischief that Charlie did. This was the Charles H. Ward who gave me my start on the Ward line.

He left home when he was sixteen, after an argument with his father about going to work for the railroad (and the odd thing was that of all his varied jobs in his life, that was one thing he didn't do). He never returned, possibly because grandfather died three years after he left; and the only members of his family that he ever saw was his sister, Ella Cornell, who lived in Iowa, and one nephew who visited us in 1919.

Since he was on his own from the age of sixteen, he had a limited education and no training so had to work hard all his life, but never shunned his responsibility, to my knowledge, and always gave a good day's work for small pay.

He lived many years in Iowa where he went when he left Illinois. There he met and married my mother, Jennie Leana

Stevens, who was born in Kendall County, Illinois also, but they didn't know each other there. She was the daughter of Carlos and Belinda Eldredge Stevens, born 16 April 1860. In the Genealogy of her Aunt, Elvira Stevens Barney, it is stated that Carlos Stevens and his family, consisting of his wife and three daughters, moved from Kendall County to Tioga, Mahaska County, Iowa where he bought four sections of land, one for each of his daughters and himself. They may have lived there at some time, but lived in other places, too. They had three daughters born in Iowa, Lulu the oldest, died at birth, Claudia Pearl, born in Rosehill and Ida Floy born in Whatcheer.

Father told of helping to build the railroad through Sioux Indian Territory. Of how the Indians sold them ponies in the day time and came at night and stole them back. He also worked at the mines and farmed in Iowa.

In January, 1895 he and his family came to Colorado with his wife's parents and her younger sister, Ida Sullivan, and her family. They settled in Saguache County but their post office was Hooper in Costilla County. They were not fortunate in their land purchase and not being dry land farmers, they lost all they brought with them and in 1900, two years after I was born, father went to Fremont County to work in the newly opened oil field and we lived in Florence for nine years. In 1909 he went to Huerfano County to work at the mines and we lived in Walsenburg and vicinity until 1913 when he came to Denver. In Denver he worked at many things but the last seventeen years of his life he was employed by the Brecht Candy Company, most of the time as packer in the shipping department.

John Milton Brown was five feet nine inches tall and weighed about one hundred and sixty pounds. He was larger than he looked, being thick set. It amused that he was always fitted in coats two sizes too small at first, when buying clothes. He was a healthy man, but accident prone. Shortly after he went to work at Brecht's he fell down the elevator shaft and though he had no broken bones, he was six weeks recuperating. Some years later he was hit by an automobile, driving without lights, as he left the factory. Again no broken bones, but a six-week recovery period. When he died at the age of seventy-eight the mortician said he had a sixty-five year old body.

He had brown hair and eyes, a very large nose, and wore a mustache. One time, before my time, he shaved off his mustache and the dog would hardly let him in the yard, nor my mother into the house. He was never without it again. To me he wouldn't have been father without it. In my life it was from the walrus type to the very trim one he wore in later life. I suppose it took some of the size from his nose and gave better balance to his face. His hair was fine and thin but he was never bald nor very grey. He had a perpetual scowl, even when there was a twinkle in his eye. He had good eyes, never needing glasses except for reading in his late years. He had a good sense of humor and a fine forgiving nature.

Father loved music and delighted in having a crowd around the piano singing, but in my life I never heard him sing a note. My sisters tell about him singing "Golden Slippers" to them, but before my time some one told him he couldn't sing and he never did again. He didn't let anyone talk him out of his love for dancing. I think he danced his last Virginia Reel the year he died.

He was not age conscious. He loved people of all ages, though the ones his own age were apt to bore him. Whenever anyone talked against the younger generation he always said that they were no worse than his and maybe better. He was always ready to share anything he had with anyone and loved having company, young or old.

On July 30, 1913 he joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Mother having been a member since 1886. He had entertained the missionaries in his home for many years. In those days they traveled through the country in frock coats and derby hats and father would cross the street to keep from speaking to the ones he was feeding and probably giving his own bed to sleep in, so the townspeople wouldn't know he knew them. He was an active member of the Church until his death Dec. 10, 1935.

He was known to his friends at work, in the neighborhood and at church as Dad Brown.

Knowledge of noble ancestry should be an incentive to noble living.

DESCRIPTIONS OF COATS OF ARMS USED IN THE BOOK AND A SHORT ANALYSIS

All of the charges which appear on a coat of arms have some meaning. Many of these meanings have been lost, but some may still be found. The best reference for this is: Symbolism in Heraldry, by Wade.

Space does not permit an analysis of all the coats of arms appearing in the book, but as an example, the colors will be mentioned. In heraldry we have two metals--gold and silver--and two furs--ermine and vair; and five colors (possibly six, including tawny) but only mention of it is found, and in searching hundreds of coats of arms descriptions, the artist has never found one that called for tawny.

Or - is gold and signifies generosity and elevation of mind.
Is also associated with the topaz and Sol (the sun).

ARGENT - is silver; indicates peace and sincerity; associated with the pearl and Luna (the moon).

AZURE - blue--loyalty and truth; the sapphire and the planet Jupiter.

GULES - red--military fortitude and magnanimity--the ruby and Mars.

VERT - green--hope, joy, loyalty and love--the emerald and Venus.

PURPURE - purple--royal majesty, sovereignty and justice--the amethyst and Mercury.

These coats of arms have been made by Bernice FitzSimmons Hathaway, M.A., Heraldic Artist, 1351 South Marion St., Denver 10, Colorado. Mrs. Hathaway makes them on parchment in permanent oil colors, using either 23 karat gold and silver leaf or gold and silver paint and oils. She also makes them in hammered copper. The size of these painted or copper ones is approximately 12" x 16" and they are very beautiful and decorative in the home. With each one Mrs. Hathaway gives a notarized description of where she verified the "arms" and a detailed analysis of the meanings of the charges on the shield, crest, and motto, where they appear. Not all coats of arms have mottoes and crests.
